

Be Fruitful

We sense that God is speaking to us about being fruitful. This was, of course, the original commission given to humanity – ‘be fruitful and increase in number’. The Bible gradually reveals to us that this always meant more than planting crops and having babies. It was actually about God’s plan for human flourishing and about our part in transforming the wilderness of our world into the garden of God. Fruitfulness is therefore central to the Bible’s big story which tracks the journey from creation to new creation.

We have already begun to look at the fruit of good lives, good works and good news. We want to explore further what it means in practice to ‘be fruitful’, why it is so important that we are, and how we can position ourselves so that the life of God flows within us to make us more and more fruitful. Stick with us on our journey together as we explore this prophetic focus with the help of the Holy Spirit.

Our preaching over this season will focus on this prophetic theme. Family Hubs will be encouraged to engage in a short series of Bible studies on what it means to be fruitful, why it’s important and how we can make sure we are being fruitful.

Our children will be doing the same.

LifeWords Bookclub

To help provide a great background for this fruitfulness focus, we also want to invite you to join us in reading a really good book that takes us through the Bible’s big story about the journey from Creation to New Creation. It is called All Things New by Pete Hughes, and you get it on Amazon. We’d really encourage you to read along together and join the discussion on our LifeWords blog.
